World News

MAYVILLE, N.Y. - A man accused of infecting at least nine young women with the AIDS virus was "some sort of scorekeeper" who kept lists of the names of dozens of females he had sex with, authorities said Tuesday. Nushawn Williams last week gave New York City health officials a list of 50 to 75 names of women with whom he's had sexual contact, said Dr. Barbara DeBuono, State Health Commissioner.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. - Jurors in the case of a British au pair accused of fatally shaking an 8-month-old infant in her care ended deliberations Tuesday night after five hours.

They'll continue their work Wednesday. Louise Woodward, 19, is charged with killing Matthew Eappen, purportedly in frustration over the child's fussing and the demands of her job. Defense lawyer Barry Scheck said the prosecution was "not even close" in proving that Woodward killed the child. But prosecutor Gerard Leone Jr. characterized the defense as a "high-priced theatrical production."

WASHINGTON - Federal Reserve Chairman Alan Greenspan says recent gyrations in the stock market could have long-term benefits for the U.S. economy by slowing growth to a more sustainable level. In congressional testimony Wednesday, Greenspan said even with the rebound in markets, consumers feel less wealthy, which will tend to dampen economic activity. That, he said, "should help to prolong our 6 1/2-year business expansion."

Hillary Rodham Clinton misses college freshman Chelsea "desperately," she says, but admits that it's "kind of fun to have a little time to yourself." Tuesday on Oprah Winfrey's TV show, the first lady, 50 on Sunday, chatted with Winfrey, 43, about aging. "One day you're reading along and then the next day you can't see what you could see before," Clinton said. "You think about a lot of that." She added, "a lot of women who are my friends really feel this burst of energy in their late 40s and early 50s. I've had more women come up to me kind of in a confidential way and say, 'It's really great. You're going to love being 50.'" "Don't you think you look better than ever?" Winfrey enthused. "Well," Clinton said carefully, "some days I look OK." "Really, I think you've found your place," Winfrey insisted, to audience applause. "I think the hair, it's there. It's there."

WASHINGTON - President Clinton quietly welcomed Chinese President Jiang Zemin to the White House Tuesday night as Washington and Beijing sought to end 8 years of diplomatic estrangement. The leaders met to review the agenda for Wednesday's summit and are expected to announce an agreement by which China will reduce its exports of dangerous nuclear expertise. Jiang arrived amidst calls from protestors about Tibet and human rights, but he refused to answer the crowd's questions.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. - The woman suing President Clinton for alleged sexual harassment wants to drop her claim that a state trooper's depiction of her as an eager mistress tarnished her reputation. Paula Jones filed a motion to amend her lawsuit Tuesday, less than two weeks after lawyers for trooper Danny Ferguson began questioning potential witnesses about her past. Ferguson allegedly set up a hotel room meeting in Little Rock between Jones and then-Gov. Clinton in May 1991, in which Clinton allegedly exposed himself and asked her for oral sex.

Market downturn not over yet

The yo-yo world of the stock market showed itself during the last few days.

On Monday, the Dow took its largest one-day plunge ever by dropping 554 points. The rapid decline of the market was devastating enough to have the market shut down some forty minutes early. The 554 points lost on Monday accounted for a loss of 7.1% or $129 billion dollars in value.

On Tuesday, the market rebounded by skyrocketing up 337 points. The surge recovered 4.7% of 7.1% loss on Monday or $103 of the $129 billion.

The rollercoaster ride broke both upward and downward records, proving stocks are becoming more and more volatile according to David Jones, chief economist of a New York investment firm.

At first analyst and investors alike thought the drop was a long over due correction by the market. However, as David Nadji, a financial planner said, "how can you call it a correction when it corrects one day and goes up again? It's very bad news."

Yet, not everyone agrees with Mr. Nadji's statement. According to Abby Cohen of Goldman Sachs & Co., prices have fallen so far that people should start buying instead of selling. Her comments along with several other key players helped the market rebound on Tuesday.

Doug Cliggott of JP Morgan agrees with Cohen stating the economic environment is still favorable. Growth is good and inflation is low, meaning Monday's sell-off of stocks are a good buy for investors.

However, key players such as Oppenheimer and Merrill Lynch are stressing that stocks are headed for a downturn. According to Chuck Clough, chief investment strategist at Merrill Lynch, he views bonds to be more attractive than stocks because of its volatility.

Clearly, not everyone agrees on a single strategy. Whether the market is still bullish will be determined in the following weeks as small investors contemplate whether to buy or sell.

300 families well over 1000 people attended. "Family Traditions", this year's Parents and Family Weekend Celebration. The event was held last weekend.

Email, Wintersession, and Parent's Weekend

Before I begin, let me say that this week's editorial is not design to step on anyone's First Amendment Right of Free Speech. However, it is written to illustrate the senseless behavior that some Bryant students exhibited through email.

Isn't technology great? At any moment, I can write to the entire campus and use my brilliant understanding of the English language (especially in the vulgarity aspect) to illustrate my maturity level. And why not, everyone on campus has a right to know that the mastering of vulgarity makes me special-kind of like a genius. And with those anonymous emails, I must be a real computer whiz-a hacker so to speak. Wouldn't my parents be proud to know what I have accomplished this year.

To be quite frank, the emails that were sent to the entire campus last week was disrespectful, disgraceful and completely inappropriate. The lack of maturity shown in those emails is extremely disturbing. If the writers of those emails think you are brilliant with their mastery of the language, think again. What was illustrated through those messages are the fact that maybe you do not belong at this college. Just because you can send anonymous emails and abuse the system do not make you hackers, but merely meek cowards. Cowards who cannot appropriately address their concerns about what is wrong with Bryant in a mature manner. No, cowards like that, hide behind a mask for fear that they might be exposed for what they really are. By the way, for all of you smart geniuses out there who replied to the messages—guess what? We have your email accounts—if I ran this school, you would be packing your bags right now.

This is the type of unintelligent people Bryant needs to get rid of. Or better yet, stay away from when recruiting and accepting new students into this fine institution. Do not accept just to increase enrollment. (i.e. 100 conditional admitted students)

What happened to all of the wintersession courses this year? Seems that Bryant has decided against offering its students the opportunity to take courses over the winter, which is a bad move on the administration's part. Hopefully, everything will be worked out so that seniors and juniors have the opportunity to take a 300 or 400 level course that they need.

Student Senate did a wonderful job of organizing and running this year's Parent's Weekend. It is unfortunate that the weather did not cooperate. However, it was good to see that over 300 families were registered for the events last weekend. The UN Festival and the Craft Fair were among the attractions this weekend. The two events ran smoothly thanks to ISO (International Students Organization) and WJMF. Praises goes out to all of the organizations that helped out in this years Parent's Weekend.

Concerned

Dear Editor,

This letter is written with the intention of informing the students and administration of the problems involving the department of public safety and the safety and security of the students.

Around the month of June, 1997, a set of master keys to hall 16 was found to be missing from the MASTER KEY BOX located in the Department of Public Safety. These keys will open every door in halls 14, 15, and 16. This includes all student rooms. The keys have not been found as of this time.

Mr. George Coronado, Director of Public Safety, was made aware of this serious security issue as soon as the keys were noticed missing. He initiated an investigation but had no success in finding the keys. He kept this information within the department and did not inform anyone, including his superiors. Mr. Joe Meichelbech was informed of this problem just a few weeks ago.

Mr. Coronado kept this information to himself, disregarding the security and safety of the entire Bryant community, in which he was hired to protect. He may tell you the locks were changed, but they were only rotated. This means the same master keys will still operate every door in halls 14, 15 and 16. No one knows who has the keys or where they are. Mr. Coronado allowed the students (upperclassmen and freshmen) to move into Bryant for classes knowing their safety and security were at risk. The person who has the keys can enter any room at anytime. While you are away or even in the worst case (while you think you are most secure in your locked room)—while you are sleeping. This disturbs me especially for the female students who may not have the strength to defend themselves from a violent attack.

There were incidents of theft of expensive items and money over the summer after the keys were noticed missing. Mr. Coronado knew of these thefts and still did not make any attempt to inform anyone of the missing keys. These thefts were taking place while the summer conferences were going on. The guests' safety and security were also at risk, and he did nothing about it!

The students must be made aware of the serious breach of security and take measures to protect themselves. The Trustees must be informed of this, too.

This is just one incident that is being let out. There are other areas of concern to the students that he is keeping to himself. He just sweeps them under the carpet and struts around campus putting on a poker face and duping the Bryant community into thinking he is concerned about the safety and security of the campus.

If Mr. Coronado is concerned, I am sure he would like to explain why this incident was kept to himself for such a long time. He may tell you that a former Bryant DPS officer was recently arrested and was the cause of some of the problems. This, in part, may be true. However, the former employee did have access to the lock shop and probably made master keys while employed there. The master keys to halls 14, 15, and 16 are still missing. They may have been replaced, but nevertheless, the other keys are still out there.

You may also want to know that student workers who work for DPS have access to sensitive and confidential information regarding students and operating procedures of Bryant. They can retrieve information on many people and incidents that happen, such as rape, theft, public drunkenness, and any other incident that happens. This information is sensitive and confidential. Again, Mr. Coronado will tell you the students have to sign a "confidentiality agreement" to work within the department, but all too often this information is let out.

I am not releasing my name in fear of retaliation from the powers that be. I am just concerned that these incidents happen very often and someone should address this with Mr. Coronado and the Board of Trustees. I must say that I truly believe that Mr. Machtley has not been informed of this serious incident. Mr. Coronado would not dare go to the President of Bryant and tell him how inept he really is. He will do everything in his powers to cover this up.

I could go on but I will stop here and sign off as:

Added Course History of Africa

In the coming spring semester, a course in The History of Modern Africa (HIS 373) will be offered. This class was inadvertently omitted from the registration packet and will be given on Tuesdays and Thursdays at 11:00 a.m.

The course begins with a study of Africa and African culture in the present, and includes an examination of current political, economic, and social trends, as well as current events. Then the historical context is examined. Topics studied include human origins, ancient civilizations and cultures, the slave trade, colonialism, and African nationalism. Films and guest speakers will be utilized.

This course counts as a Humanities or as a General Liberal Arts elective for upperclassmen. For sophomores and freshmen, it counts as a course in either the Historical or the Cultural Mode of Thought. The Africa course is normally given every other year; therefore, it will not be available again until the spring of 2000.

For further information about HIS 373, contact Professor James Estey in Faculty Suite C or at 232-6235.

DPS CRIME PREVENTION TIPS

by Ginnie Bowry
Department of Public Safety (DPS)

WATCH THOSE HANDBAGS, BRIEFCASES, AND KEYS

- Never leave your handbag, briefcase, suitcase or other valuables unattended in common areas.
 - Never carry large amounts of cash. If you must, do not let it be known.
 - Always carry your purse clutched tightly in your hand or under arm. Never lay your purse on a counter while writing a check or performing other tasks. If your purse has long shoulder straps, don't let it swing around so it is actually carried on your back. Remember that a large purse makes a large target for a purse snatcher. The smaller the purse the better.
 - Lock valuables and cash in desks or other secure locations.
 - Never leave an identification tag on your key ring.
 - If your keys are lost or stolen, this could help a thief find your car and burglarize your office and/or home.
 - Do not hide extra keys under the floor mat or under the hood of your vehicle.
 - If you need to drop your vehicle off for repairs, don't leave your house key, apartment key or office key with the car key.
- Call Ginnie Bowry, DPS crime prevention specialist, 232-6001, if you wish to borrow books, brochures, or videos on security or personal safety for men and women, or ask to have DPS give a safety/crime prevention presentation for you and your fellow students/faculty/staff.

Senate Supports Shuttles

Dear Editor,

Over the past few weeks I have seen several articles in The Archway questioning the Greek behavior at Bryant. Some articles have said the Greeks do more than their fair share on campus, while others have said they should be banned. This letter is not intended to take a side, rather to shed light on an activity that they currently sponsor. During a recent round table meeting, the sisters of Delta Zeta asked if the other chapters would be interested in helping them sponsor their shuttle service that runs from Bryant to Parente's and Touch of Class on Thursday nights. As one of the Senate liaisons to round table discussions (Tim Bertrand being the other) I informed them that not everyone on this campus agreed with their philosophy that transporting students to those establishments on a school night was a good one, and went on to say that I would bring this issue up at the next Senate meeting. That Wednesday at the Senate meeting I asked for my colleagues support on this issue and I passed a motion that read more or less as follows: The Bryant College Student Senate supports the shuttle service currently sponsored by the Greek community and will show our support via The Archway. Basically this means the Student Senate supports this endeavor.

This letter was not to imply that organizations need the Senate's support for everything that they might want to do, rather it was meant as a means of support for a group of students who seem like they are constantly bashed in The Archway.

Thank you for taking the time to communicate your problems with the Senate. If more organizations would communicate not only with the Senate, but with each other, I think this campus would be more productive.

Sincerely,
Bob Fressola, Sophomore Senator & The Bryant College Student Senate

If you or your group has an issue/problem on campus please do not hesitate to come to our meetings. 4 o'clock in Patitto every Wednesday.

Congratulations!

This is to congratulate the International Student Organization (ISO) for organizing the United Nations Festival this past weekend.

The informative booths ranges from Australia's wood carving display to India's colorful textiles. And the stage-based entertainment contributed further to the cheerful atmosphere. But most impressive was the courtesy and friendliness of the international students who hosted this event. The students not only served as ambassadors to their native countries by also to Bryant as a global community.

As a foreigner myself, I am pleased as punch that Bryant College is home to so many cultures and ethnic backgrounds, and I must extend a word of thanks to the ISO's Executive Board and the various sponsors who made this event possible.

Sincerely,
Dr. Joseph Bonnici

Despite all the bad weather this weekend, Parents weekend was a still a great success. There were many activities for are parents to attend that were very informing, educating and entertaining. From 10 till 4 on Saturday in the gym UN Day was held. It was like one big Unity day in one. Our gym was filled with several countries showing their culture and heritage. Also some clubs were in attendance. One particular club was Amnesty International, which showed our parents and guests what they stand for and promotes. Some of the countries that were represented were Australia, Spain, Sweden, Korea, Lebanon, China, Malaysia, India and Japan.

Our students, who did an excellent job, in presenting their heritage, ran these countries. The tables were alive with all kinds of information about their culture and country. This was an excellent opportunity for our guests and parents to learn something about a culture that they probably knew little about. All throughout the day there were skits performed by the various countries. One skit that was very impressive to the audience was the Russian dancer, who made the gym come alive with their dances and music. These skits were not performed by our students but by children from the area. These children were very proud to represent their country and to show people how they will not forget their heritage.

While you were watching the show and walking around by the tables you could have snaked on some different ethnic foods from the various countries. The buffet added flavor to the day and added to the delight of being in the gym.

UN day had a positive impact on the weekend in general. Everyone who attended the event was extremely impressed. They thought the event brought new meaning to the word culture and heritage. Our guests were glad to see all our different cultures in our community come together as one. This added to a new theme or idea that has been popping up everywhere on campus which is to "promote Diversity" among our community.

If you missed UN Day, you really missed out on lot of fun and entertainment. Hopefully next year there will be another UN day and it will be even larger. Next year maybe even more countries will be represented.

The Annual United Nations Festival sponsored by the International Students Organization, was held in the Gym, last Saturday from 10 a.m to 4 p.m.

The Northern Rhode Island Special Olympics at Bryant College

Last year on May 3, 1997, Bryant's campus was transformed into a place where dreams could come true for six hundred athletes, their families, coaches, and our volunteers. The track and surrounding fields were filled with the sounds of excitement in anticipation for the Games Day to begin. President Machtley began the day with an inspirational speech about reaching for your goals. The athletes warmed up by dancing with our volunteers, and the torch was run in by an energetic athlete being supported by the Men's Rugby Team. Everyone looked to the sky in awe to watch a fellow Bryant student jump out of a plane and land on the center of the track. The Games Day was declared officially opened.

The roar of the crowd, the determination of the athletes to go for the Gold Medal, and the enthusiasm of four hundred Bryant volunteers dedicated to helping each athlete forget about their handicaps lasted throughout the day. It was a success, and everyone was overwhelmed with joy and a feeling of great accomplishment. This was a day that would never be forgotten by all those people who were involved.

Those volunteers now share the same belief as the athletes who participated in this grand event. They believe in the Special Olympics Oath: "Let me win. But if I can not win, let me be brave in the attempt."

I urge you to join with those special athletes and fellow Bryant students who have shared their dreams. Be part of the Games Management Team and help build a brighter future for many special athletes.

Applications for Core Directors are still available in the Senate Office. Applications for Chair People will not be made available until the middle of November. If you want to get involved or have questions, you can call either Lauren at x8360 or Jill at x8167.

On behalf of the Games Management Team, I would like to take this opportunity to thank all of the members of the Bryant Community who helped make the 1997 Northern Rhode Island Special Olympics a success.

It was a day to demonstrate all the hard work, time, and effort that was spent preparing for the games. The Games Management Team is proud to be able to give the athletes a day filled with entertainment, athleticism, and inspiration. An event of this caliber takes many months of planning, organizing and dedication. I thank, in particular, the Student Senate, Dr. Larry Lowe, Dr. Keith Murray, Dr. Richard Smith, Mrs. Susan Detri-Souve, Parente's Restaurant, the Men's Rugby Team, the Men and Women's Basketball Teams, the Karate Club, and the Volleyball Team.

I thank everyone who volunteered their efforts to help make this day a success. I look forward to seeing the Bryant Community work together once again to help make an even better Games Day for our athletes.

Sincerely,

Lauren Gular

CHAPLAIN'S CORNER

Rev. Thomas Trepanier
Catholic Chaplain

Parents' Weekend brought together 300 worshipers to the Masses last Saturday evening and Sunday afternoon. A feeling of reverence and friendliness permeated our gatherings. Special thanks to our lay readers and musicians, sound engineers, and piano movers for their much-appreciated help.

Seven places are being reserved for Bryant students to attend an inter-collegiate one-day retreat on Saturday, November 8, from 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Catholic Center at URI, for the bargain price of $5.00! Interested students may contact the Campus Ministry Office at 232-6045.

Spiritual growth and development requires continuous practice, intense study, and reflection. In an effort to foster these attributes, Mass will be celebrated on Tuesdays and Thursdays (12:05-12:20 p.m.) in the chapel at the Bryant Center. These occasions for prayer and meditation are in addition to our regular Sunday evening Mass at 8 p.m. in Room 2A&B. Everyone is invited to attend these services.

In addition, volunteers are needed to prepare for these three weekly Masses. We need readers, Ministers of the Eucharist, musicians, hospitality people, and sacristans (those who prepare the altar table).

Finally, planning activities for our Newman Club is continuing. This Wednesday's (October 29) meeting should produce some results.

On a liturgical note, the month of November is dedicated to remembrance of our beloved dead. Special emphasis upon this theme is contained in the prayers for All Saints' Day (November 1) and All Souls' Day to be observed this Sunday, November 2. The Catholic Biblical text, emphasizing the goodness of praying for the dead, is found in the Hebrew Scriptures (Old Testament) in the Second Book of Maccabees 12:38-45.

The Catholic Chaplain is normally on campus on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons from just before noon until 4:30 p.m. Appointments to visit with Father Trepanier may be made by calling Maureen (the secretary in the Campus Ministry/Counseling Office) at 232-6045, or through Father Tom himself (same number).

Tuesday, November 4th

Tony plays what he calls "Acoustic Soul Music," a unique blend of funk, blues, and folk that adds up to a soulful, intelligent, sensitive and inspirational sound. At one of his shows, you might hear anything from Tony's powerful originals to covers of Bob Marley, Seal, Smashing Pumpkins or even a funkied up version of the disco classic 'Ladies Night.' His strong voice, ace string-bending and powerful stage presence have the press struggling to compare this unique artist to everyone from John Hiatt to Taj Mahal: "Mixing the passion and sweet voice of Babyface with the early musical genius of Prince." He has also been called a "master song writer" and is noted for his "wit, warmth, and catchy melodies." Jarvis is currently being courted by several major labels, including a deal with mega-label Capital Records. Isn't that reason enough to come and check out the show? Thought so.

Back again! Sorry about last week to all my fans. But hey, now that I've staggered in from the weekend its time once again to get started.

First off, congratulations to all of our new pledge brothers: Brad, Drew, Andy, Al, Aaron, Nate, Brett, C. J., Greg, Andrew, and Ben.

In sports, 'A' football is doing, ... well thankfully its almost over anyway. Enough said. In other news while Dutch was left behind Knuckles had a good time over the weekend. Thanks to Mattie and Kennedy for the present Saturday night. Kennedy, your cable is already on its way. Spizzle got divorced this weekend. He and Q also made a trip to Arizona State. Scrappy got a visit from Freddy over the weekend. While at UMass JoBu converted religions. Goose has a new wrestling move; "The flying Buddha." Scooter is now taking applications for one on one "Mad Cobra" night classes. His resume already consists of at least one known graduate. A second graduate has not yet been confirmed, but I don't think it is mere coincidence that Wilk's favorite band is White Snake.

Tip of the Week: Make sure you are one of the first 16 to see Ego by the weekend.

Hello! Hope everyone had a groovy parent's weekend. Vegas entertained while I made a fool of myself!! Friday night was a scream for Mattie, Kenedy, Reece, Pepper, Monroe, Darbi, and Mercedes. Remember to check your trunk-Billy Blue might get you! Thanks to everyone (especially Kenedy) who entertained my sister this weekend! Nikali, Meridian would like to say sorry for the furniture outburst on Saturday. Sorry if I scared you all. Silva would like to thank Nicole for the Buddy System, so we don't have to wear snowsuits to the pool!! Kenedy, Thanks for staying the weekend! See what a good time it is? We had a happy birthday go out to Nikali and one more going out to Kenedy (the Halloween baby!) Val's muffin of a nephew is celebrating his big 3rd birthday! That's all for this week. Happy Halloween everyone and we'll see you this weekend...some of us are adding some SPICE to Halloween!! CHECK YA LATER!!

Thanks to all who came out to support our Demo on Saturday. It was a great success! We hope you enjoyed the time you spent with your families!

We will be having a beginners class for those who are interested in joining the club on Tuesday November 4th from 6-7:00 p.m. in the aerobics room at the Jarvis. The beginners class will be an informational class. We meet Monday, Tuesday and Thursdays from 6-7:00 pm. Come and check us out! NO EXPERIENCE NECESSARY!

Everyone should start to prepare for the upcoming belt test. We are aiming for a date towards the end of November. Please see the advanced members if you have any questions about what you need to know for the test. Try to make as many classes as possible so you will be prepared for testing.

How is everyone doing? First of all I would like to thank everyone for making Spanish Unity Day and the Halloween Party a success. Our upcoming events in the next couple of weeks are European Unity Day and the Kix 106 Party. If you are interested in helping out or seeing what MSU is about the meetings are held in room 252 from 5 to 6 every Tuesday. And if anyone is interested you can submit poetry, articles, essays, pictures, and editorials to Cultural Flavor which is a monthly magazine put out by the Archway.

The Bryant Players

by Kelli Young

Hello Everyone! To start, let us all take the time to do a dance of joy...the play is over! Hooray! Now that we got that out of our system...the play was a big success. We had large audiences with a lot of pep (that always helps!) I think, by far, our best performance and most comical was the Saturday afternoon. We had them rolling in the aisles! I however refrained from doing any ad-libbing (for those of you who remember M*A*S*H, you remember the whole "S for..." incident!), but those of you who did; it was like butter. In my book, Tamir gets the ad-libbing award. Well, just when you think it's over, it starts up again. Auditions are next week for the Dessert Theater play (we don't exactly know WHAT plays we're doing, but we do know auditions are next week!) Directors will be Jen Warren and Ken Blankenstien.

I would now like to take this time to thank all the alumni for coming to the play this weekend. It was very nice seeing all of them, even though they will never be welcome to a cast party ever again. It looks like the guys in Dorm 4 will be going without shaving for a while, at least until one of them can get to a store to buy some shaving cream. Hey, do you think we can convince Ernie to try out for the next play? We'd love to have him!

And on that note, I leave you... Overheard(s): "I was supposed to be recording something?"

"You were dropping acid, weren't you?" "Lieutenant, be nice."

I hope everyone had an enjoyable Parents and Family Weekend. SAA held our First Cow Chip Raffle, which proved very successful. The money that was raised is being donated to the Northern Rhode Island Special Olympics. Congratulations to everyone on this committee for making this event possible.

Survival Kit flyers went out last week, so hopefully we will get another good response. Candy and Carnations for Halloween are now on sale, so look out for tables in the Bryant Center and at Salmanson. The Festival of Lights, Adopt-A-Highway, Toy Drive, and New Eyes for the Needy committees are working exceptionally hard. If anyone is interested in assisting them, your contributions will be greatly appreciated. I urge anyone who has not joined a committee to do so.

The Leadership Retreat is this weekend. This event is a great opportunity to enhance your leadership skills and meet many new people. I hope to see everyone there. Enjoy your weekend.

Get out of the fog and into SPB! This was the theme at our Halloween meeting on Monday. For those who did not attend, we filled the room with fog and had Halloween decorations everywhere. Of course with Halloween, comes candy and it found its way into a piñata. Poor Steve, he must of wore himself out trying to break it. What was it, twenty swigs Steve?

We would like to thank President Machtley for attending our meeting and speaking about the Mighty Mighty Bostones Concert. This concert was probably the biggest event we have ever had on this campus, now that is something to be proud about. Congratulations to our new voting members Michele, John, Christine, Kimberly, and Donna. Another congratulations goes out Kyle T. Kadish, who recently became our new Trips and Attractions Co-Chair.

Look for another big event coming November 14. Kicking off Fall Weekend will be Paula Poundstone performing in the MAC. For those who do not recognize the name, she is a stand up comic on HBO. General Admission for this event will be $10.

Don't forget to buy your tickets for the Fall Weekend Semi-Formal "Enchantment on the Sea". The Semi-Formal Cruise will be from 10 p.m.-2 a.m. on November 15.

Hi everyone! I hope you all had a great Parent's Weekend! I think this past one was our most successful one yet. We all had a great time! Especially when we broke out the tippy cup games. Mel, my father will not rest until he beats your father. He blames me but you and I both know it was him. Wright's Chicken Farm and Parente's will never be the same. Christie and I were fearing for our lives a bit. Those of you who know what happened at Parente's might agree with the old saying, "the apple doesn't fall far from the tree". Even I've never been that bad there though.

I know we're not the most coordinated sorority but I think having three sisters on crutches at the same time is a bit much. I might have to take responsibility for a couple of those though due to my purchases for Friday night. Thanks KT for a good time by the way. The boxes were a good idea just not the way in which we consumed them. Jamie and Karen, Dana and I still say it's 7 to 0! I'm pretty upset that I was the first to gape out though. Russell, don't think we forgot about what you have hiding in your room.

It's now time for the random notes taken over the duration of the weekend. Hey guys, I'm out like the wind and I'll see you sometime! Hey Houdini! Christine, let's make a trip to the goody cabinet. Wilson, you owe me $10 -Ann! Ang, I think Ericka's calling you. Ericka's mom is now an honorary Sigma sister! Michelle, do you have to wear Adidas sandals to be in a sorority? Angela was being socially responsible. Christie, "oh, you won't like him, it's those toenails". Longo, Christie is sorry about dragging you to G-block but it would have been a long walk back without you. Steph and Skivs were being anti-social listening to "old School". Christine, did the room spin or was it me? Gina, what's the real story with the Poison Ivy? Steve-o, we have to go back to Cassarinos! Nader, what were we talking about, things are getting a bit too comfortable J/K.

Well we are all looking forward to a great weekend! I expect to see some good costumes! I hope everyone gets into the spirit and has a great time! Quote of the week: "The scarf is key!" Have a good one! Check ya later Ivy May, AKA Ivy Kooler!

WJMF

Chris Grogan

You know what I have never been able to figure out, how come during Halloween whenever kids yell out "Trick or Treat!" they always get a treat, but never tricked? Other than the time some lady slipped a pencil instead of a candy bar into my loot bag when I was a kid, I have never been tricked, I have always gotten a treat. I think I still have that pencil.

Well, at WJMF, where the trick is always to give listeners the treat only if they beg first, plenty has happened in the past week. In last week's Archway, the WJMF show schedules were on display. If you haven't thrown it away yet, at least cut out the schedules so you know what we will be playing. Guess what time I'm on? Check out the schedule to see if Hooked-on-Phonics has worked for you. If you have already thrown the last issue away, here it is again by day and musical genre (time in parentheses):

Sunday - Gospel (A.M.), Techno/Alternative/Specialty Shows (P.M.)

Monday - Alternative (A.M.), Alternative/Metal (P.M.), Punk/Ska all evening

Tuesday - Talk (A.M.), Techno (12-4 P.M.), Country (4-8 P.M.), Folk (8-2 A.M.)

Wednesday - Classic Rock (A.M.), Hip-Hop rest of day.

Thursday - All Metal

Friday - All Hip-Hop

Saturday - Suicidal Saturday (all hip-hop)

The other big happening for WJMF was the Craft Fair. As usual it was a big success, so successful we ran it until 5 PM instead of 4 (who says Daylight Savings Time begins at 2 AM). Next year we might make it the Puff Daddy Fair, it will be a Puff Daddy themed...oops, that was a private joke shared between a few members of WJMF. I almost turned this week's Campus Scene article into what 75% of the other organizations write, jokes that only a "clique" of people will understand. Sorry about that. But thanks to all that participated and bought stuff at the Craft Fair.

Although the Craft Fair was a hit, not everything went well for us this past week. Last Suicidal Saturday, we had to go off the air for an hour due to some equipment problems that needed to be fixed. It wasn't exactly fixed, but we are broadcasting anyway. If you hear several seconds of dead air, chances are something else within the station broke. We apologize for any discomfort this may cause.

Anyways, that will be all for this week. There is probably more stuff to mention but my crack dealer will be here at any minute. So keep it locked to 88.7 WJMF, where the hits pack more Spice than the Girls.

Hey Ruggers! We hope everyone is having a great week. Thanks to those who ventured out on Parent's Weekend to see our game in the horrible weather. Despite the weather, we totally dominated the game and won 30-0. Wait 'til Thursday Central CT! We can't wait to see your new team. Congratulations to those who scored tries, especially the new muffin women. We would also like to congratulate the guys team for an awesome game on Saturday afternoon. Nice job boys!

We would like to thank KT for a good time on Saturday night. Everyone had fun getting down to the old school tunes. Dancing boy got hold of the boot this time. Good job, we're impressed! Mary- we know you are going to find Juan and show him a thing or two.

That's all for this week, but we leave you with a question to ponder: "Susie- Which tube exactly is the wrong tube?" Sorry that you were the one to find out.

NBA Preview

By Duc Tien

Here it is everything about the NBA you want to know. Actually it is everything we thought you should know. Predictions, thoughts, rankings, everything. So sit back and enjoy the new season.

Okay, first thing we'll tell you is this year should be more exciting than last year because the three point line has been moved back to its original spot. That means the floor is opened up and there will be more cutting and driving to the hole. More chances for scoring and more chances for dunks.

That is not bad for starters, but you want to know the good stuff right? Well you might as well put championship trophy in Chicago's hands now and have everybody else play for first loser. It is that simple. The Bulls are still the best because they still have Michael Jordan. So he's getting old, but he is still better than everyone in this league.

So if Chicago has the trophy, who will win challenge? The East looks like Miami will be the only challenger. The New York Knicks are just too old and slow. Atlanta and Detroit could be tough, but those teams do not have a player like Jordan. The West looks like a dog-fight. With five teams able to challenge the Bulls. The Sonics, Lakers, Jazz, Rockets, and Spurs should make it interesting, but watch out for darkhorse Phoenix.

Dallas and Sacramento should have an epic battle for the worst record in the league. However, do not be surprised if Golden State or Boston slips in there as the worst.

So who will win the awards? Since Scottie Pippen and Toni Kukoc are hurt, and Dennis Rodman is still a nutcase all eyes will rest on Jordan. He will pick up the slack and therefore should take home another MVP. The Rookie of the Year will be another one of those Allen Iverson cases where a player loads up his stats because his team stinks. That is going to happen this year in Boston with Chauncy Billups. Gary Payton should bring home the Defensive Player of the Year with his aggressive defense.

Team Capsules (In order of predicted finish)

1. Chicago Bulls - Well they have the best player in the world, the best rebounder, the best team defense, and the best coach. The NBA might as well mail the championship to Chicago right now to save time.

2. San Antonio Spurs - This team was going to win at least 55 games anyway this year, but with the addition of Tim Duncan the Spurs will be the strongest team in the very strong West. David Robinson is healed and so is Sean Elliott so the Spurs should return to form.

3. Los Angeles Lakers - The Lakers probably have the most talent in the league, but the problem here is chemistry. Can Nick Van Exel suppress his ego long enough to work with head coach Del Harris? Will Shaquille O'Neal learn to play the game outside the paint? This team will only go as far as those two take them.

4. Seattle SuperSonics - So they lost Shawn Kemp, who cares? Kemp is not what made this team. The Sonics were built on intense defense and that is what they will bring to the table this year. Add All-Star Vin Baker to the mix and the Sonic should make another run at the Finals.

5. Miami Heat - The Heat's game is built around solid physical play that punishes team. Although they did not pick up anyone over the summer, the Heat still has All-NBA guard Tim Hardaway leading the charge. And when Alonzo Mourning comes back the Heat will challenge Chicago.

6. Utah Jazz - The Jazz are getting old and this may be their last run. Karl Malone will have to play like a MVP again if the Jazz are to have a chance. And that may be hard considering John Stockton is injured, but Howard Eisley will be a suitable replacement. However, the Jazz needs Stockton back ready for the playoffs though.

7. Houston Rockets - The old three of Houston should be good enough to get this team to the playoffs, but beyond that the Rockets are a mystery. If they are forced to go through a brutal season, the lack of young legs could hurt this team if they go deep into the playoffs.

8. New York Knicks - The Knicks still have Patrick Ewing, but that is about it. This team has looked very bad and slow during the preseason. Unless Allan Houston or Chris Childs steps up, the Knicks might not make it pass the second round of the playoffs.

9. Charlotte Hornets - The Hornets were a surprise last year and should not be overlooked this season. They went out and added David Wesley at point guard and should give many teams a shock this season.

10. Detroit Pistons - The Pistons are also one of those teams that cannot be overlooked this year. This team still has Grant Hill, Lindsay Hunter, and Joe Dumars running the show. But the lack of a big man will show up in the playoffs when teams pound the ball inside.

11. Phoenix Suns - The Suns are going to be the scariest team in the league this year. Not only will they be going at teams with Jason Kidd and Kevin Johnson in the backcourt; the Suns will also have Antonio McDyess and Cliff Robinson in the front court to terrorize opponents. Not to mention Danny Manning coming off the bench. A lack of a shooter may hurt the Suns though.

12. Atlanta Hawks - This team went through very little changes in the off season, so expect them to finish where they were last season. Mookie Blaylock is one of the most under rated point guards in the game and Christain Lattener has finally started to earn his paycheck, so the Hawks should be good enough to return to the playoffs.

13. Portland Trailblazers - The Blazers should also be one of the scarier teams in the league this season. A lineup of Rasheed Wallace, JR Rider, and Kenny Anderson should force teams into bad situations. The only problems is if the Blazers can stay out of jail long enough to get to the games.

14. Washington Wizards - The Wizards, formerly known as the Bullets, have all the tools to be a very good team except experience. A front line of Juwan Howard and Chris Webber coupled with Rod Strickland at point should be a force. The Wizards should be strong if the injury bug does not get to them.

15. Milwaukee Bucks - The Bucks may have lost Vin Baker, but they also lost the Black Hole Offense as well. The addition of Terrell Brandon should help Ray Allen's game. Glenn Robinson will give you the usual point and Ervin Johnson is a suitable center.

16. Orlando Magic - The Magic have fallen and fallen badly since the departure of Shaq and it gets worst this year. Unless Penny Hardaway can pull some kind of Jordonneque performance then the Magic will be hard pressed to make the playoffs.

17. Indiana Pacers - The Pacers bring new uniforms and a new coach to the table, but it should be the same old story. Larry Bird may have been a great player, but unless the Pacers play like his Celtics, Larry Legend will not be a great coach.

18. Minnesota Timberwolves - The Wolves paid over 120 million to their third best player this summer and will have to pay more than that on the court. Kevin Garnett is not what makes this team run, but instead it is Tom Gugliotta and Stephon Marbury who run the show. The problem is that this team lacks a big man and that will hurt come playoff time.

19. New Jersey Nets - The Nets could be one of those sleeper team that might sneak into the playoffs. The addition of Keith Van Horn will help, but lack of a point guard will hurt their chances towards the playoffs.

20. Los Angeles Clippers - The Clippers have a lot of strong players that no one has heard of. That is the problem. This team doesn't have a go to guy in crunch time and it will show when they are sitting at home during the playoffs.

21. Toronto Raptors - The one thing this team doesn't lack in confidence. A playoff visit in not out of the question, but they will need solid performances from Marcus Camby and Damon Stoudimare every night to win.

22. Denver Nuggets - The Nuggets will be one of the youngest teams in the league and it will show early on. However this team is loaded with talent at both forward positions and a return to the running game should help the Nuggets pull off some wins at home.

23. Cleveland Cavaliers - So they got Shawn Kemp, but they lost every one in their starting lineup from last season. Only an inconsistent Bob Sura returns to help Kemp and that is not much.

24. Boston Celtics - The Celtics will not be the worst team this year, but they will be close unless they can shoot the ball a little better. The defense has looked good, but the offense is horrible. Look for Antoine Walker to have a break through season though.

25. Philadelphia 76ers - The Sixers have talent, but no chemistry. If Allen Iverson learns to pass the ball to teammates than the Sixers will have a chance. But if Tim Thomas and Jerry Stackhouse do not touch the ball, then the Sixers will lose a lot.

26. Vancouver Grizzlies - The Grizzlies have a good core team that will keep them from the cellar, but not far from it. Antonio Daniels will have a lot of pressure as the new point guard, but do not expect Bryant Reeves to do much to help out.

27. Golden State Warriors - A change in uniform will do no good for this team. Joe Smith has yet to mature to the superstar he was expected to be. The addition of Brian Shaw, will help a little, but this team should be getting ready for the lottery.

28. Sacramento Kings - The Kings will only go as far as Mitch Richmond wants them to. One of the best players in the league, Richmond wants out of the Sacramento and will not play very well this year.

29. Dallas Mavericks - The Mavs should be use to this be now. Not only does this team have no talent up front it has no talent anywhere. It will be a long season for the Mavs as they spend most of it at the bottom.

SPORTS

Athlete's Corner: Women's Volleyball, Senior Co-Captain Jennifer Carvalho

Gayle Zahnke
Assistant Sports Editor

Hometown: East Providence, Rhode Island

High School: E.P. High School

Number of Years Played Volleyball: 14

Position: Setter

Can you explain the challenges of being a setter?

It is like being the quarterback of the team and setting the momentum of the game. You have to check out the defense on the other side of the net and use your best offense based on that.

Since you "run the show" on the court, how do you handle the passers and hitters? Is it hard to get in their face?

I work with the passers if they are having an off day and encourage them. If that doesn't work, I try to scare them. As far as the hitters are considered, I try to give them a ball they can work with, and then, once they are in a rhythm, I start running a quicker offense with them. If they are off, they are out of the play. In order to get the play again, they have to start calling the ball, and that gets them mentally prepared. You earn a set or a chance to hit the ball because there are three hitters.

How have you maintained such consistent excellency over your four year career at Bryant when you have anywhere from thirty to sixty assists a match?

I don't stop demanding of myself. Sometimes I will have what I consider an off day, and other people will think that I am having a good day. So I base my performance on my own standards, as my father taught me to do. At the end of every practice and game, I think I did well but know I can do better. Both the team and I benefit from it.

What will it take to get you to the NCAA tournament?

We will have to play the way we played New Haven in order to get to the NAAs. That was the most united I think I have ever seen us play. Everything just gelled.

What was it like being in the NAAs during your freshman year?

It doesn't seem like it was real. It was awesome. That was the highest team achievement I have had my entire life with volleyball. Really, nothing can touch it.

Has it been a driving force the past few years to get back, especially because of your team accomplishment four years ago?

When I came in my freshman year and we went to the NAAs, in my mind that was where we were going to start from every season. We worked our way up from the NAAs. Each year, that was the minimum I ever expected from the team. Plus, I want the rest of the girls on the team who weren't there to experience it, too. I want to go out the way I came in.

What kind of discipline does it take to be a volleyball player, particularly a setter?

Mental toughness. I'm not the one on the court allowed to have a breakdown. I have to stay focused and try to keep everything as smooth as possible. Physically, I just have to play through injuries and everything like that. I have to hustle all the time, try to keep the intensity of the team, and be a leader. There is no time for me to fold on the court. I have to be as positive as possible and encourage the girls.

How big of a role does volleyball play in your life?

Sometimes I help my Dad's team as far as the setters go. I talk to them and teach them about the mentality and what has to be going on in your head during a game. I also help with his volleyball camp during the summer, since most of the campers are from my high school. It is one of those occasions when you actually get to give back, like you always want to but usually don't. It is also nice to give something back to volleyball as a sport. Volleyball is my life. It is the center of everything—the nucleus of my personality—and the way I handle problems. It helps me relieve stress and stay in shape. It is a confidence builder and makes me feel good. It is my world; ode to the sport.

What are your personal goals for the season? I image you have many of them already this year, since you've met the 4,000 career assists honor.

I've never had personal goals when it comes to volleyball. I just play. I've never looked at stats and only know what people tell me or what the newspapers say. Actually, my grandfather calls me usually and lets me know how I'm doing. Usually any goals I do have are related to people on the team. I always want to instill more trust since I get every second ball. I'm going to put it in the best position I can for them. When it is crunch time, I want them to count on me and feel that I'm reliable. I think that they all know that I am always trying my best out there. As far as the hitters are concerned, I try so hard every time to give them the most perfect set each and every time. It is always about me and somebody else. Defensively, I try to hold my ground and get respect as a defensive player as well.

What is the most memorable part about playing volleyball?

The huddles. That is my chance to say something inspiring with those twelve girls looking at me. They look at me to motivate them, and I get them pumped and think, "Here goes nothing." So what I do is cut up the other team and make them laugh a little bit and remind them of how nasty we are so they don't forget. Then I just howl like a fool and set it off on the court.

Pointless and random thoughts on the wide world of sports

By Duc Tien

Before I start into this column let me just say that I'm glad I getting my sense of humor from somewhere else now because the radio station just isn't funny anymore.

And I used to look up to those guys. Game Seven, extra innings in the World Series. It just doesn't get any better than that.

Both teams played an excellent series but it was Florida's time.

More specifically it was Jim Leyland's time to shine.

The Indians deserve credit for coming back and forcing a seventh game, but their drought looks like it will go 50 years.

With Florida's expensive payroll, it was nice to see a guy like Craig Counsell score the winning run.

Is has to feel good to see a guy like Livan Hernandez win the MVP with his mother there watching.

I do feel bad for Sandy Alomar Jr. He put up great numbers in a losing effort.

Not to mention Chad Ogea.

It just shows that because you are the best in the regular season it means nothing come playoff time.

If anyone has ever questioned the Denver Broncos desire to win a game this year they should have sat back and watched them play Buffalo.

Sure the Bills came back, but when the Broncos had to, they shove the Bills around.

Not bad for a team that got to Buffalo about four hours before game time because of the four feet of snow dumped on Colorado.

Terrell Davis has got to be the leading candidate for the MVP after carrying the Broncos with his second 200-yard game of the year while John Elway had a horrible game.

How many does Curtis Martin have? And can he carry the Pats if Drew Bledsoe stinks?

I guess he can't because the Patriots lost again while playing a good team.

How can a team that has supposedly great players like Martin, Bledsoe, and Ben Coates not be able to score a touchdown with a first and goal from the one-yard line?

And then to let Green Bay march 99-yards for a touchdown.

That is just sad.

I guess we know which team is going to choke when it comes to tough games.

And why can't a supposedly great running back like Martin run through the 27th ranked defense against the run?

Seriously, the Patriots got fat playing weak teams and now that they have to go up against the big boys, they just can't handle it. That is the difference between the contenders and pretenders. Right now New England falls into the pretenders club.

This is just the game Green Bay needs to get back on track. Very quietly the Chiefs, Giants, and Vikings are beating teams.

Even quieter, Steve "Air" McNair is becoming a very good quarterback.

San Francisco is starting to get the New England Patriot syndrome.

They're getting fat playing very weak teams, but their true test comes this week when Dallas visits.

But with the way Dallas is scared of the End Zone this might be a very easy game.

Surprise, surprise, the Colts loss again.

Surprise, surprise, the Bears actually won a game. Against Miami no less.

Tampa Bay is definitely back. They have lost three in a row. Good job boys.

Oh, was that something the radio station would have said. I am sorry, let me take that back.

The DC United won the MLS soccer championship over Cinderella Colorado.

Does anyone care?

NBA basketball starts this week with so watch it while you can because come this summer the players may be locked out.

But if you're a Boston Celtics fan you better hope that they learn to shoot because if not you might as well hope they got locked out.

They might not win 15 games this year.

This column has been totally written without the help of those funny people from WJMF.

Just so you know what I'm thinking...

SPORTS/ENTERTAINMENT

Meet the Press

by G. Higginson.

It is something we so often take for granted-the availability of a newspaper.

"You read the Call today?" "Nah, not yet." Meanwhile the man next door is frantically phoning the circulation department to complain that his paper still has not arrived.

For me the newspaper has been a daily part of my life since grade school in the late 1950's. Always two a day-the Brockton Enterprise, a local paper, and the former "Daily Record," a Boston paper. Meanwhile we watched the news at suppertime and discussed the day's news.

I sincerely want to thank the Archway Staff for giving me the chance to contribute to this paper, dealing with my often tedious, handwritten material. It means a lot to me that they find the time and patience to do it. So meanwhile, me, the janitor from the hall, sitting at lunch break in my yellow shirt can temporarily lay aside my window spray and flush mop, can pick up my pen and share my gripes with the world, or at least the Bryant community.

Remember, what is one of the first things authoritarian, underhanded governments of? Almost invariably they clamp down on the press.

Yes, information is power. The tracts and pamphlets distributed in the late 1700's helped stroke the flame of the American Revolution. Likewise with the Civil War. They sometimes used to credit Harriet Beecher Stowe with starting the Civil War, when she wrote "Uncle Tom's Cabin." This feisty little woman armed only with a pen, ardently supporting the abolition movement certainly affected millions. Later in the 1800's media and the press both disseminated pro labor ideas, and other factions railed against it when the unions were formed and the struggle for the eight hour work day was in full swing. Ditto for Civil Rights, the controversy over the Vietnam War and dozens more issues.

Of course not all in the press deals with hassles and issues. My daily Boston Globe and Providence Journal have truly given me an education in a wide variety of subjects that I was never able to get otherwise because I did not go to college. My daily newspapers have the power to elate and mystify, anger and frustrate me, stimulate my curiosity, occasionally make me slam my fists with indignation with editorials I take exception to-but no matter what they always get a reaction. The Health and Science Section, The Travel Section, touching stories of other peoples personal struggles. I think for fifty cents it is a bargain having the world brought daily into our lives by our major papers from Boston and Providence. I probably should have gone into sales for them, I know after that pitch, but it wouldn't be as much fun!

Yes, general knowledge is important. Current events, local, regional, and international are vital to us all if we are to make intelligent decisions as an electorate or even making intelligent career choices in today's job market. I feel the the unfolding financial disaster in South East Asia and this weeks' collapse of the Hong Kong Stock Exchange could have far-reaching ramifications for all of us.

The Journal's recent spotlight series, "Teaching Matters," is a wake up call for all Rhode Islanders about the public schools. Not only criticisms were aired but sensible suggestions how to improve the situation.

You might find the editorial pages boring but much direction for public policy is initiated and perspective formed by the editors and their colleagues in business and politics.

Moreover, being well informed is a first step to participation in the democracy of this complex society of ours.

Best and Worst of the Week

By Duc Tien

Best Performers

- Terrell Davis (Denver Broncos)- Put up his second 200-yard rushing game of the year.
- Yancy Thigpen (Pittsburgh Steelers)- His 11 catches and 196 helped the Steelers beat the Jaguars.
- Warren Moon (Seattle Seahawks)- Threw for over 400 yards and five TDs as the old man beat the Raiders.
- Joey Galloway (Seattle Seahawks)- Caught seven passes including three scores for the old man Moon.
- Steve McNair (Tennessee Oilers)- Emerging star threw for two scores and ran for two as well.
- Livan Hernandez (Florida Marlins)- Pitched the Marlins to the World Championship.
- Terry Glenn (New England Patriots)- She came to play, too bad no one else from New England did.
- Brett Favre (Green Bay Packers)- Favre came to play throwing three TDs and leading his team on three long drives.
- Green Bay defense (Football)- Much maligned this year, the Packer defense steeped up and stop the Pats from scoring.
- Chad Ogea (Cleveland Indians)- Gave the Indians a shot with his arm and his bat.
- Sandy Alomar (Cleveland Indians)- Put up MVP caliber numbers in defeat.
- Teemu Selanne (Anaheim Mighty Ducks)- Is doing pretty well without Paul by his side.
- Wayne Gretzky (New York Rangers)- He now has more assist than anyone has points, but the Rangers still can't win, just tie.

Florida Marlins (Baseball)- What other reason could it be?

Worst Performers

- Joe Thornton (Boston Bruins)- I think it is time for the rookie to go down to the minors.
- Tony Fernandez (Cleveland Indians)- He might as well have his things sent to him because he is not coming back to Cleveland.
- New Orleans Saints (Football)- Got shutout for two straight weeks. That is bad.
- Todd Collins (Buffalo Bills)- This guy is not a quarterback; he's more like a doorman or bellhop.
- John Elway (Denver Broncos)- Played horrible, but at least Davis picked up the slack.
- Drew Bledsoe (New England Patriots)- Must have been colorblind Monday because he kept throwing the ball to the wrong team.
- Indianapolis Colts (Football)- They might be here for a long time.
- Dallas Cowboys (Football)- When did staying away from the end zone become the fashionable thing to do.
- Chicago Bears (Football)- Same as the Colts so sit back and watch the losses pile on.
